

Bravo for Bravo

Riley & Digby are two of our Newfoundlands. Riley is 11 years old and has suffered from allergies resulting in a terrible skin condition. He has spent a great deal of his life on antibiotics. He would get hot spots and rashes that would fester and cause him severe itching and in need of many medicated baths. His coat would get very thin and shaggy looking. We tried, thru process of elimination, many different foods. After going on Bravo Raw Diet he has not had any skin problems and has a full thick coat even now during the summer. He is a much happier and healthier dog.

Digby is nine years old and has had a rough life. At six months old he was diagnosed with crippling hip dysplasia and underwent gold bead implantation. This procedure has given us 9 more years with him. At about 6 years old he started vomiting every night after going to bed. In search of what the cause was, it was discovered that he had a necropsic kidney, resulting in the removal of it. This was still not the cause of his vomiting, as it continued. Upon recommendation, we tried him on Bravo Raw Diet. He stopped vomiting the next day and has not had an episode since. He too has a full healthy coat right thru the year.

These two dogs have proven to me that the Raw Diet has merit, even though it is a bit more expensive than processed dog food, it has resulted in less Vet & prescription bills.

When in doubt, ask yourself, WWWD, “What would wolves do”? Naturally!
